From the imaginations of our young talented writers at all three Kids Club sites, we are proud to share with you their stories that they have created and now published. It is not an easy process publishing your own story and we hope that your young author takes pride in the story they have created.

We would also like to thank the Siemer Family Foundation, a supporting foundation of The Columbus Foundation, for granting the Clintonville-Beechwold Community Resources Center the funds to support CRC's Kids Club youth literacy and academic programming. By: Ethan

His rival Lauren was just walking down aisle five. Jeff decided to remove one can off the top of the pile and bring it home. Lauren decided to ruin his fun and tell him.

But all of the sudden, she slipped and landed on a pile of cans. Jeff slowly placed the can on the fallen pile. Two cans were splattered and Lauren couldn't get up. Then, Jim ran in the of the loud crash. Jeff ran as fast as he could. Jeff ran into the janitor's closet and watched anime. The ambulance came, but Demon Slayer was blasting in his ears. Lunch came quickly and so he took his lunch break. Jeff got Burger King for him and Jim. He knew that someone was bound to be envious of his lunch. It was finally the end of his day at five o'clock. As he tried to leave Walmart he noticed the doors just wouldn't budge. "Oh gosh" said Jim. Terry Crellow, one of the other workers, tried to open them. "Okay we're locked in." said Terry with some frustration in his voice.

After a couple hours the lights went out around eight o'clock and they decided to set up camp for the night. Jeff thought that he saw a floating weird dude walking through the walls, but he hadn't slept for twenty-two hours.

Jeff, still scared about the floating creepy dude, started to hear a menacing voice talk to him. The voice began to say, “Oh hi Jeff, it’s Ethanos” Jeff began to respond to the voice saying “Wanna get some coffee?” The voice responded to Jeff saying, “Sure, this is the first time a victim has wanted to take me to coffee.”

Once there was a Titanoboa lurking in the swamp of Columbia. It was waiting for it's prey to come. It waited for the perfect timing to strike its prey. Then, "Bam!" it strikes an alligator and squeezes its prey with the pressure of twenty one kilograms per second, more than the Brooklyn Bridge. It is so tight that the alligator blood stops running and it dies. The Titanoboa swallows it whole.

I'm Rocky Juravich and I am sixteen years old. I am a Jack Russell terrier. I live here in this little house with my family. In my family there is Josie the little girl, Ari the little boy, and my human parents, Amy and Jon. I love it here. I get to lay on my bed and get to do absolutely nothing.

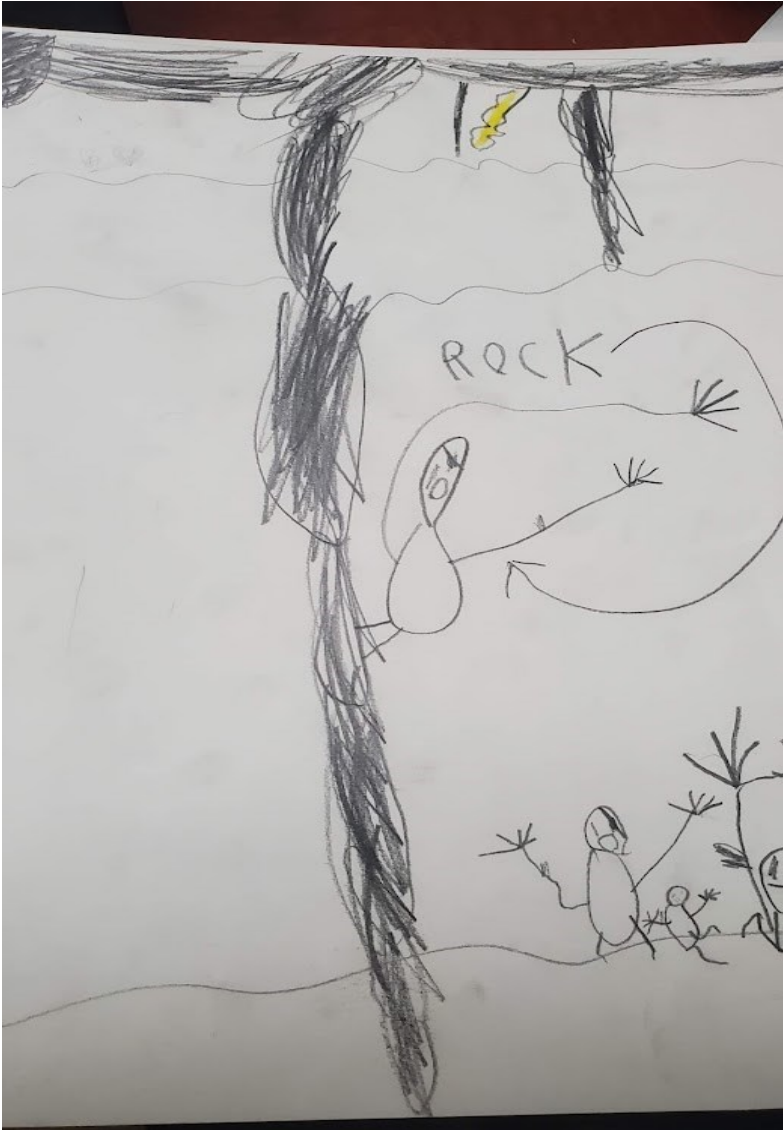

I have so much fun just sleeping all day. I never want this to change. Oh hey, it's that girl I was telling you about. Why is she on that screen today? Hey, why is everyone home? I feel like running, but like always, I never could open the door. I frantically ran around the house. I can't even fall asleep and when I least expected it, the girl wrapped her arms around me and said this, "It's okay we are in this together."

Hello, my name is Rock and I am twenty years old. I love tornados and looking for Bigfoot with my twin brother, Rock two. Our friends are Nock and Tock but that is not why you are here. You are here to listen to our great adventure to find bigfoot. We set out on our adventure time flowers in hand and ready for anything. The team went straight into the thick forest that goes all the way to the ocean. As we walked through the forest we found our first sign of Bigfoot, a big footprint on the forest floor. Before we could even stop to celebrate we heard a great big roar. It seemed that we were so focused on the bigfoot track that we didn't see the bigger footprint and hair beside us. In all the craziness of discovering the track we began to hear new sounds of stomping getting closer.

The stomping stopped and we then saw a bigger creature higher than the clouds with teeth the size of Bigfoot. We all began to run away because we were all really scared, must have seen us running away because the creature began to run after us. We thankfully got away by entering a nearby cabin. In the cabin we saw the local villagers. We began to talk to them about the creature we saw. They told us that there were different kinds of these creatures throughout the land and that we should beware.

One of the villagers gave us a book to help us be careful with the other monsters before they sent us on our way.

As Ethanos went to the overworld to torcher people something caught his eyes. A Walmart (bum bum bum) and then the store closed just like that. I went shopping in Walmart and found the toy aisle. “Oh yeah baby, I just hit the jackpot ” Ethanos said.

He began to make a fort on the shelves and before he knew it the time was already six o'clock. “Ah my head,” said Ethanos looking down to find that he slept on a Batman toy. “Ugh, whatever,” he said as he fell back asleep. “Snoooooor... Snoooooor.”

Ethanos woke up and said “It’s nine! What!” He floated through the shelves one by one looking for a way out. Then, he recognized someone he knew. It was Jeff and before he knew it he began floating faster and faster toward him.

Jeff looked around and noticed Ethanos and began to turn around and back around. “Oh hi Jeff!” Ethanos said. The terrified Jeff turned and looked at Ethanos and said “Hey, wanna get some coffee?” Ethanos said “ Sure, this is the first time a victim has asked me out for coffee.”
